

INDEXES TO VOLUMES I AND II

Our very meagre space permits us to do no more than (1) list, by name, the authors whose works have been mentioned in the running bibliographies which have appeared in the 1951 and 1952 issues, and (2) list standard authors whose works have been the subject of specific comment in books and articles referred to in the bibliographies and elsewhere in the various issues. References are to volume, number and page in the NEWS LETTERS for 1951 and 1952.

Last-Minute Items

A Conference on "The Modern Writer and Natural Science" has been scheduled at Boston for Saturday evening, December 27th, from 8:00 to 10:30 P. M., under the chairmanship of Professor Norbert Fuerst of the Department of German, Indiana University. Your Editor has been asked to "formulate in a statement of c. 5 minutes" a "topic, somehow related to the above theme." Attendance at this Conference would be of great aid in bringing together our special synthesis of literature and science with the more general study of interrelationships between the two great areas of learning.

The New York Psychoanalytic Institute has established a School of Applied Psychoanalysis, designed for students "who have had graduate training in the social sciences and the humanities or who have shown ability in these fields." Of particular interest to our members (in addition to the indispensable basic courses in theory) would be the study of fiction through the novels of F. Scott Fitzgerald (beginning in March), of poetry through the works of A. E. Housman (beginning in February), and the symposium on "Analytic Contributions to the Understanding of Art and Literature," a course which is now under way. Your Editor has a number of copies of the School's prospectus. Additional information may be obtained from the Society's office at 247 East 82nd Street, New York 28. (We should be glad to hear of similar offerings in other parts of the country.)
